TORONTO –Chelsea Hotel, Toronto has partnered with Motion Pay Technology Inc., allowing Chinese tourists an opportunity to directly access their Alipay and WeChat Pay accounts. Chelsea Hotel is one of the first hotels in downtown Toronto to offer this convenient payment option. Motion Pay is a Canadian Fintech that connects Canadian businesses to Chinese consumers.

With the service provided by Motion Pay, guests of the hotel can pay their bills directly with Chinese RMB through Alipay and WeChat Pay. There won't be a requirement to exchange manually for Canadian dollars therefore, Chinese guests can enjoy the most convenient and familiar payment methods, just the same as they use every day in China. This will definitely facilitate the payment process and enhance guest satisfaction.

Alipay was introduced in 2004 and today, there are over 520 million active Chinese users. WeChat Pay and Alipay have more than 1.3 billion active users. Reaching a record of 682,000 arrivals to Canada in 2017, up 12% over 2016, China was Canada's largest source of tourist arrivals from the Asia-Pacific region and Destination Canada's second largest overseas market.

"Motion Pay empowers Canadian businesses to connect with Chinese consumers," says Riven Zhang, Motion Pay's CEO and co-founder. "To offer Chinese consumers their preferred payment methods is one of the most significant incentives that influence their purchase behavior."

"China has always been an important market for us," says Robert Housez, general manager, Chelsea Hotel, Toronto. "According to Tourism Toronto, 2018 was declared the Canada-China Year of Tourism and the Chelsea Hotel is pleased to join other major Toronto attractions to accept China's largest mobile payment options. Guest satisfaction is our top priority so with this convenient and secure option, we are proud to be a Motion Pay partner."
